

hearings and submitting appeals and petitions, and by conducting elections that will reflect the voice of the people. 2) We will remove the one-party monopoly of Diet offices, will strive for the withdrawal of party membership by speakers and vice-speakers, will realize democratic procedures that will respect discussion to the greatest degree possible through joint responsibility of the various parties, and will thereby raise confidence in the Diet as the "supreme organ of national sovereignty" and expand political participation both in principle and in fact.

DEMOCRATIC SOCIALIST PARTY (DSP) 03:65

1. Security and Okinawa

We will endeavor to strengthen the United Nations and, with the aim of a step-by-step dissolution of the security system, will as part of this revise the Security Treaty next year to get rid of the bases and stationed troops of the U.S. military. Through this, we will get rid of the disorder over base pollution and the Security Treaty and will establish proper friendly relations between Japan and the U.S. At the same time, we will establish an autonomous defense system where one's country is defended oneself and will incorporate the Security Treaty as a supplement to it. As for Okinawa, we will endeavor to realize a "mainland-equivalent" return under which no discrimination whatsoever remains. In particular, we will channel full effort into the complete removal of nuclear weapons, the strict observation of prior consultation, and the removal of B-52's. In addition, in order to get rid of confusion at the time of return, we will strive for the development of the economy and the welfare of Okinawa under the responsibility of the state through the creation of an Okinawa Development Agency, and so on.

2. Tax Cuts and the Cost of Living

Through a large-scale raising of the salary income deduction, the income tax of a standard household will be tax-free up to 1.5 million yen over a two-year plan. We will create a working minors' deduction and promote tax reductions for minor workers, newly establish an educational expenses' deduction in order to lighten the burden of educational expenses, and will raise the point of non-taxation for the residents' tax to 1 million yen. We will not allow public utility charges to be raised during the upcoming one year. We will strictly prosecute cartels, administered prices, etc., and will lower the prices of the products of large corporations. Stabilization of the prices of perishable foods through the expansion of designated produce areas and the new establishment of large-scale distribution centers and large-scale refrigerated storehouses. The establishment of a Foods Items Law and the strengthening of the Fair Trade Commission.

3. The Universities

Along with opposing all violent behavior of any kind in the universities, we will not simply engage in prosecution but will reform the old university system that is the backdrop. For this purpose, we have already proposed a "Basic Law for Universities." Through this, we will restructure the universities so that they will not be just for the cultivation of a handful of elites but will be open to the nation's masses. In addition, we will realize the clarification of the status and responsibilities of students, dissolve the disparities between private and public schools, establish a supervisory responsibility system centered around the university president, etc., and will construct peaceful universities where there is no factional infighting.

4. The Rice Crop

We oppose the authoritarian acreage reduction allocation measures of the government. In order to reform the excessively rice-oriented and low productivity constitution of agriculture and establish high productivity agriculture that possesses a comprehensive self sufficiency that can adapt to the diversification of demand, in single rice crop areas and major production areas we will conduct infrastructural improvement projects through national funds and strive for the modernization of rice growing operations. In mountainous areas, cold water regions, and other areas not suited to rice growing, we will encourage shifts to livestock feed growing, etc., under strengthened technical guidance and income guarantees of national responsibility with the aim of promoting livestock breeding, etc., where the expansion of future demand is expected and which, in addition, have a high value-added character.

5. Parliamentary Politics

Although Diet operations involving clashes between the two major parties of the LDP and the JSP might look like parliamentary politics in a formal sense, in actuality this is a clash of cats and dogs that has not been able to perform the function of furthering the national interest. In the mean time, the uneasiness and contradictions in the lives of the people have only deepened. The increase in the number of parties is the counterattack of the nation against this. In order to establish parliamentary politics of a new stage, our party will democratically mediate the diversified demands of the nation, reform social institutions, and will raise the nation's confidence in politics, which is the foundation of parliamentary politics, by firmly maintaining constructive policies that will allow everyone to enjoy an equal and high level of welfare.

KOMEITO/CLEAN GOVERNMENT PARTY (CGP) JS:69

1. Security and Okinawa

We will protect the Peace Constitution and realize equidistant and complete neutrality. We will realize the reestablishment of Japan-China diplomatic relations, create concrete measures like the location of the Asian headquarters of the United Nations in Japan, etc., to correspond with the dissolution of the Security Treaty, will bring about a de facto depowering of the Japan-U.S. Security Treaty--that will involve Japan in war--through the the removal of bases, etc., and will strive to quickly dissolve [it] during the 1970's in an active and step-by-step manner. We will realize the immediate participation of Okinawa in national government and will strive for the economic independence of Okinawa through large-scale fiscal aid based on a comprehensive economic development plan by the time of its 1972 return. In particular, we will strongly oppose the introduction of nuclear weapons and the free use of bases in times of emergency, promote the removal of nuclear
