

3 thousand yen per month for all children and an allowance of 50 thousand yen for childbirths. We will correct the gaps in medical care services such as in areas with no such services, and we will strive for the realization of providing health insurance coverage to 10 percent of the principal beneficiaries and 90 percent of the families. We will push for the fulfilled supply of social welfare facilities in next year's plan.

5. Political Position

We will protect the Peace Constitution, establish parliamentary democracy, protect fundamental human rights, realize the politics of giving preference to national welfare, and strive for peace in and the neutralization of Asia based on an independent, equidistant, and neutral diplomacy. In order to do this, we will crush the LDP aspirations to realize small election districts and to change the Constitution for the worse, and we will strengthen regulations of political funds and cut out the roots of the influence of money in politics and strive to change the political situation by bringing together the centrist reformist powers. In addition, we will correct the imbalances in the number of Diet seats (the largest imbalance being 5 to 1) and strive for equity in the rights of the people.

DEMOCRATIC SOCIALIST PARTY (DSP)

1. Diplomacy and Defense

We will promote the diplomacy of independence and peaceful coexistence and contribute to the building of a new peaceful order in Asia. In order to do this, we will work do the following:

1) We will revise the security treaty, remove in principle the military bases, and realize the removal of regularly stationed troops. We will work to eliminate troops from Vietnam, Thailand, and East Asia and establish a system of prior consultation. 2) We oppose the Fourth Five-Year Defense Plan, which provides no brake to increased military spending, and we will strive to make it an obligation for defense plans to obtain Diet approval, to pass through the Diet the establishment of a defense committee, and to form national consensus on defense matters and civilian control. 3) We will establish an "Indochina Restoration Fund" which would include the United States, China, and the Soviet Union among other means to contribute actively to Asian economic cooperation. 4) We will improve Japan-Soviet ties through the return of all the Northern Territories and by cooperating in the development of Siberia. 5) We will promote Japan-China ties through a peace treaty and economic cooperation.

2. Restructuring the Country

We will enact a fundamental law on the use of land with the priority of national welfare as its principle, divide the country into six types of districts including residential districts and districts for the preservation of the natural environment, ban the conversion of land use for 50 years, ban the construction of factories or housing that would destroy nature, establish a system where the buying and selling of land must pass through a land use public corporation, and regulate prices based on decisions by a land price committee. We will stabilize land prices by taxing separately high price transfers and eliminating land speculation. In order to make environmental policy complete, we will enact a fundamental law to preserve the environment. We will establish a complete system of no-fault liability for compensation. We will revise the laws dealing with punishments for pollution violations. We will regulate the overall discharge of pollution and make it an obligation to be equipped fully with pollution prevention devices. We will expand the system of long-term low interest loans to small and medium sized businesses.

3. National Life

We will establish a system that will ensure lifetime income, and we will actively work to ensure a minimum standard of civilized living. We will strengthen legal regulations of cartels of large corporations and the supervision of prices. We will hold down increases of public utility charges through defrayments from general revenues. We will stabilize food prices by establishing a law aiding the direct distribution of food from producers to consumers. We will allow tax free income of up to 1.3 million yen for couples with two children. We will also reduce, besides income tax, residential taxes. We will push for environmental facilities that will pleasantly raise social living through the planned expansion of housing, waterworks, parks, kindergartens, nursery schools, and sports and culture centers.

4. Social Welfare

Our top policy priority is a five year plan to quadruple national welfare with the realization of monthly old age welfare pensions of 30 thousand yen and monthly per person contributory pensions of 70 thousand yen. In addition, in order to ensure high level equitable pensions, we aim to unify the pension systems and change it so that it is based on the levy system. We will strive to drastically expand the facilities for the aged and physically handicapped. We will improve the treatment of those working in social welfare facilities and work to cultivate great quantities of such workers, and establish a fulfilled system for the education of handicapped children. We will provide free medical care for infants, the seriously handicapped, patients with incurable diseases, and old people over 65 years of age.

5. Political Position

We will work to change the current Tanaka Cabinet's continuing LDP politics of giving preference to large corporations and economic growth to the democratic politics of giving preference to welfare and human respect. To this end, we will protect the Constitution, work to bring together the constructive reformist forces to support parliamentarism, and push for the replacement of the LDP with the opposition parties. At the same time, we will drastically revise the law regulating political funds, push for the public management of elections, correct the conspicuous imbalance in the number seats in the Diet, and aim to realize clean politics that does not cost money.

JAPAN COMMUNIST PARTY (JCP)

1. Diplomacy and Defense

Even after the restoration of Japan-China relations, Japan continues to be a base for the invasion of Vietnam. The United States' "power policy" remains unchanged, the cold war structure remains in place, and the security treaty still remains in force. We will stop the government's complicity in the American invasion of Vietnam and demand the immediate signing of a peace agreement. In order to truly bring an end to the postwar period, we will normalize relations with Vietnam and Korea, plus strive to conclude a Japan-Soviet peace treaty and bring a settlement to the Kurile Islands issue. In particular, we have a pressing need to abrogate the Security Treaty and make Japan independent, peaceful, and neutral. We oppose the Fourth Five-Year Defense Plan, which will strengthen the offensive military capability. We will stop Japan's dependence on the U.S. and disband the constitutionally illegal Self-Defense Forces. Under the present Constitution, Japan cannot have military troops, and we will seek the will of the people in deciding the future of the Self-Defense Forces. We aim to establish a true collective security system in Asia.
