1. Security and Okinawa

As a result of Prime Minister Sato's visit to the U.S., the realization of the return of Okinawa to the homeland, which was the earnest desire of the nation, has been decided under [the conditions of] "1972, non-nuclear, mainland-equivalent." Return in 1972 is, in effect, an immediate return. Aiming for '72, our party will promote measures for the unification of the mainland and Okinawa in such various areas as administration, economy, and society. We will quickly establish an Okinawa Economic Promotion Plan, aim for a large-scale increase in Okinawa aid funds, and, along with endeavoring to improve the industrial base and increase the welfare of the people of Okinawa Prefecture, will aim to realize [its] participation in national government. We will continue to maintain the Japan-U.S. Security Treaty. Against the threat of nuclear weapons, we will look toward the nuclear deterrent power of the U.S. and will carry through the Three Non-nuclear Principles. On the basis of these preconditions, we will improve defense capacity in accordance with national strength.

2. Tax Cuts and the Cost of Living

With a large-scale lightening of the tax burden focussed on the salary-earner as the base, during fiscal 1970 we will: 1) raise the bottom limit for assessment of taxes on standard households to around 1.03 million yen for income taxes and 720,000 yen for resident taxes; 2) greatly relax the degree of income tax rate graduation for the middle income strata and below; 3) greatly expand and improve deductions for salary income; and 4) raise the proprietors' deduction for individual enterprise taxes. For the sake of stabilizing price levels, we will 1) establish harmony between productivity and wages; 2) reform the distribution structure and strengthen measures to increase productivity; 3) lower the prices of products of high profit corporations; 4) hold down public utility charges; and so on.

3. The Universities

Education is the base of the nation and the source of culture. For the sake of cultivating outstanding citizens and realizing all-round education, we will conduct a fundamental reform of educational institutions. Along with striving for an early resolution of the campus strife being confronted and the strengthening of supervision and management of universities, we are determined to hold college entrance examinations for the next academic year. In consideration of the importance and uniqueness of the duties of teachers, we will strive to improve their wages and benefits and, in addition, will renovate colleges for the training of teachers and strengthen reeducation of teachers. For the sake of raising the morality of working youth and providing them with an opportunity for education, we will strive to establish television high school and television college [programs].

4. The Rice Crop

Along with [firmly] establishing agriculture as an industry, we will deploy a comprehensive agricultural policy with the aim of securing production that corresponds to demand and the permanent prosperity of agricultural villages. We will firmly maintain the foundation of the food control system. As emergency measures, we will conduct the adjustment of production of greater than 1.5 million tons and set up powerful aid measures for switching to other crops, etc. We will strictly restrict the opening of new rice paddies and acreage increases and will promote concrete measures such that the regional division of agricultural production will be quickly clarified. From fiscal 1970 onward, we will implement measures to expand consumption such as school lunches using rice, etc. We will also strive for the improvement of agricultural roads and other infrastructural improvements and stability in livestock prices.

5. Parliamentary Politics

We will firmly maintain the representative system and the principle of majority rule. In operating the Diet, we will continuously listen thoroughly to minority opinions and will accept revisions when there are constructive opinions. However, when the use of force or when the action of refusing deliberations is undertaken in the Diet, we will resolutely eliminate these. Under thinking of this kind, our party will revise the Diet Law, focussing on raising the authority of the speaker and respect for deliberations based on free speech.

Elsewhere, we shall eliminate the direct political actions of a minority that is planning revolution under the guise of the right of resistance.

1. Security and Okinawa

1) In accordance with the Constitution, we will abrogate the Japan-U.S. Security Treaty through diplomatic negotiations and get rid of military bases. As for automatic extension, we will oppose this through a resolutions, etc., to abrogate the Security Treaty. We will advance a peaceful foreign policy of positive neutrality, revoke nuclear weapons, and promote complete disarmament. We will realize, at the same time, a Japan-Soviet peace treaty and the reestablishment of Japan-China diplomatic relations, conclude treaties of friendship between Japan and the U.S., Japan and the Soviet Union, and Japan and China, and will establish a security system that does not rely on armaments. As for the Self-Defense Forces, we will reduce and disband [them] with the wide support of the people. 2) The U.S. rule over Okinawa is unconstitutional and we will demand immediate, unconditional and complete return along with complete non-nuclear withdrawal of bases and will develop Okinawa, not as a military base for domination of Asia, but as islands of peace. Following return, we will, in accordance with the will of the people of the prefecture, improve residents' welfare and promote peace industries and will remove economic domination by foreign and mainland capital.
